Our software, your way

Alert Rental is a leading supplier of software for rental businesses of all sizes across North America. Founded in 1976, Alert is proud to be a women-owned business and hosts the longest-running user's group in the industry. Driven by market and technology trends as well as client feedback, Alert offers rental software designed with your business goals in mind. With both cloud-based subscription and one-time investment solutions, Alert Rental will work for—and grow with—your rental business. At Alert Rental, we believe in doing business with people, not companies. We see ourselves as your technology partner and not just another vendor.

Connect with us to learn more about how we support party and event rental stores with our mobile app Rover; integrations with RFID and 3D Event Designer software (among others); web and e-commerce tools; ticket management and customer communication tools; and inventory management and billing solutions. For decades, we've worked with top event rental companies to develop and enhance technology that saves time, money and resources so you can focus on helping your customers bring their events to life.
